18B. Cultural Heritage Gazetteer

18.1 Introduction

18.1.1 This Gazetteer identifies those cultural heritage receptors within the defined study area as fixed for the preparation of the Preliminary Environmental Information (PEI) Report. Not all of those receptors listed in this appendix are within the current Study Area for the heritage assessment of the Proposed Development. Those receptors relevant to the assessment are reported in Chapter 18: Archaeology and Cultural Heritage and Chapter 19: Marine Heritage of the ES (ES Volume I, Document Ref. 6.2).

3778	Monument	COATHAM MARSH	Observation made by R. Lofthouse during the cutting of a number of salt mounds in the Coatham Marsh area. Lofthouse describes 'some of them were excavated a few years ago, and a cutting was driven right through one of them. I inspected these at the time and noticed in one place a piece of cinder or scoricae in the perpendicular side of the cutting, four or five feet below the surface, and some broken earthen ware was found in them. On top of some that were excavated were found a series of trenches and a large quantity of scoricae and clinkers'.	Medieval
4024	Monument	COATHAM MARSH	A row of 23 concrete World War II tank traps survive on British steel land between the Coatham Marsh Nature Reserve and Redcar Works.	20 th century
4025	Monument	SOUTH GARE	Two concrete cubes were noted during site visits to the south Gare by Peter Rowe and Gary Green on the 11th December 1997. The cubes were at mean high water and consisted of a cube of concrete approximately 35 inches square with an iron loop in the top. Discussions with John Harewood of the Defence of Britain project identified these remains as World War II anti-invasion defences.	20 th century
4039	Monument	KIRKLEATHAM	In 1348 a chantry with 12 priests was endowed at Kirkleatham. The priests were housed in a substantial rectory. The location of the site is not known.	Medieval
4041	Building	KINGS HOUSE	Kings House was demolished after 1961. It was formerly a substantial 17th century brick built, three storey mansion.	17th century
4042	Monument	KIRKLEATHAM	A pond feature can be seen on the 1774 plan of Kirkleatham to the south of St. Cuthbert's Church.	17th century
4044	Monument	PIGEON COTE	A pigeon cote is first shown on cartographic sources of Kirkleatham in the 1809 estate book deposited with the north Yorkshire county record office. The feature was demolished sometime between 1961 and 1971.	19th century
4045	Monument	KIRKLEATHAM	The first edition ordnance survey plan shows a complex of long sinuous fishponds along the length of fishponds road from the old A174 to Yearby Village. .	17th century

HER UID	Type	NAME	Description	Period
4046	Monument	THE TEMPLE	A feature marked as 'The Temple' is shown in the woodland at the northern end of Kirkleatham fishponds to the south of the former hall on the 1st ed. Ordnance survey maps. The building was demolished in 1955 but plans survive, and the building was photographed.	18th century
4047	Monument	KIRKLEATHAM	An ice house is marked on the 1st edition Ordnance survey map of Kirkleatham to the north of St. Cuthbert's Church. The site is demolished presumably to accommodate the graveyard extensions of the 19th and 20th centuries.	19th century
4048	Monument	ISSAC'S POND	A dog-leg pond is shown on the 1st ed. Ordnance survey map of 1857 and labelled 'Meggits Pond'. Further ponds have been dug out to the immediate north by the time of the 2nd edition survey of 1895. The pond is at this time labelled Issacs's Pond. The pond is likely to be a clay quarry for the local brick industry.	19th century
4049	Monument	GARDEN FIELD POND	A c-shaped pond is shown on the 1st ed. Ordnance Survey map of 1857 and labelled 'Garden Field Pond'. The pond is likely to be a clay quarry for the local brick industry. The site has been backfilled to reclaim the land for agriculture.	19th century
4050	Monument	STONE CLOSE POND	A square pond is shown on the 1st ed. Ordnance Survey map of 1857 and labelled 'Stone Close Pond'. The pond is likely to be a clay quarry for the local brick industry. The site has been backfilled to reclaim the land for agriculture.	19th century
4051	Monument	KIRKLEATHAM	A large round mound is shown on the 2nd ed. Ordnance Survey 25 inch to the mile map of 1895. The mound is still extant although covered in vegetation and surrounded by mature trees. The date and nature of the mound is not known.	Unknown
4052	Monument	TURNERS HOSPITAL	The western boundary of Turners hospital is defined by a concealed ditch which runs north-south for approximately 250 metres.	17th century
4053	Monument	KIRKLEATHAM	A sunken walled ditch runs alongside the north side of the old A174 at Kirkleatham. The feature probably formalised an existing watercourse and is water filled.	17th century
4066	Monument	THE OLD INCLINE	Railway incline installed shortly after the discovery of ironstone in the Eston hills in 1850. Now disused but surviving as an earthwork in places.	19th century

4365	Monument	BRAN SANDS 'QL/QF' SITE	Former World War II bombing decoy QL/QF site.	20 th century
4380	Monument	KIRKLEATHAM HALL	Reused fragment of stone balustrade built into church yard wall. The sculpture consists of two end pieces of a sandstone balustrade which presumably came from Kirkleatham hall (SMR 236). It was revealed in 1999 following the cutting back of vegetation.	17th century
4478	Monument	LACKENBY	Lackenby village is first mentioned in the Domesday book of 1086 when it was described as 'waste'. The remains at Lackenby today represent a shrunken medieval settlement with two working farms, High Farm and Old Hall Farm (SMR 0468).	Medieval
4670	Monument	ST. SEPULCHRE	There are various documentary references to human remains being discovered in the vicinity of the old chapel of St. Sepulchre (SMR 0350) near Marsh House Farm (SMR 4669).	Medieval
4671	Monument	WARRENBY	Village created in the 1870's for the workers of the nearby steelworks. The settlement takes the form of a single street, tod point road, with dwellings on either side. There was a mission chapel and Wesleyan chapel.	19th century
4782	Monument	GRANGETOWN	Signal box dating to 1954. This box operates a panel frame dating to 1984. The box is still in use and stands on the side of the line to the north-east of Grangetown Station (SMR 4360).	20th century
4796	Find Spot	SOUTH GARE	A bone pin was reported to Tees Archaeology in January 2001 by Mr. Booth. The pin had been found whilst digging for bait at South Gare several years earlier	Early medieval
4806	Monument	SIR WILLIAM TURNERS	During drainage works in March 2001 on the north side of Sir William Turners hospital, excavations uncovered a subterranean chamber. It is located beneath the road surface approximately 2.5m north of the north-west corner of the west bastion. The chamber is approximately 2.5m long and 2m wide (internal) and has a sandstone ashlar tunnel/barrel vaulted roof supported on brick walls running north-south.	18th century
4807	Monument	9 THE COTTAGES	A carved stone was found during excavations to create a sunken garden on the plot of no. 9 the cottages, Kirkleatham, c. 1974.	Medieval

4811	Find Spot	WILTON	A medieval ring mount was discovered whilst digging a drainage ditch at St. Cuthbert's Church, Wilton in 2002.	Early Medieval
4857	Find Spot	10 EAST CRESCENT	In 2003 Mrs. Scott of Lazenby reported the find of a Romano-British trumpet brooch. Mrs. Scott had found the brooch as a child in the 1960s. The brooch was found in the garden of 10 East Crescent, Whale Hill, Eston. This property was demolished some time ago and the grid reference is an approximation pending a historic map search for the address in question.	Romano-British
5198	Monument	ESTON HOSPITAL	This pair of ironstone pillars, each weighing 2.5 tonnes, stands at the site of the former Eston hospital (SMR 5199). The obelisks are inscribed on two faces with 'Cleveland Ironstone Eston Mines'. They were extracted from the Eston Ironstone Mine (SMR 1122) which operated from 1850 to 1949. They originally flanked the entrance to the carriageway leading to the hospital which was opened on 16th June 1884 and removed when the hospital closed in 1980 and were sited outside of the town hall on Fabian Road. The pillars were returned to stand at the original site on 25th April 2004 along with two display panels detailing the history of the mine and the hospital. A second pair of identical pillars remain outside of the town hall (see SMR 5200).	19th century
5199	Monument	ESTON HOSPITAL	Eston hospital was opened on 16th June 1884. It was paid for by Bolckow, Aughan and Company Limited, intended for employees of the Eston Ironstone Mines (SMR 1122). The hospital was demolished in 1980. The original decorative obelisks (SMR 5198) that stood at the entrance to the hospital were returned to the site in 2004.	19th century
5636	Monument	REDCAR JETTY	O.S. 1895. 6" Yorkshire sheet viia. Sw. 2nd edition shows the jetty leading out into River Tees. Partly founded on slag banks, and with an associated tramway from the Redcar Iron Works. The jetty has a 'hooked' end, terminating in a short length of wharf; Redcar Wharf This structure is still in use, alternatively known as Redcar jetty or Redcar wharf.	19th century
5638	Monument	OLD SHAFT	O.S. 1895. 6" Yorkshire sheet vi.se. 2nd edition shows an 'old shaft', close to the Eston branch line and Holme Beck. Curiously, there are no recorded mines in the area of the shaft, therefore its location is somewhat unusual. This area is now open ground/sports fields.	19th century
7996	Monument	KIRKLEATHAM DEFENCE AREA 57	This former anti-tank ditch protected the north, south and eastern flanks of Kirkleatham defence area 57 during world war ii. The ditch appears to have been largely backfilled shortly after the war.	20 th century

HER UID	Type	NAME	Description	Period
4863	Monument	YEARBY	A small pinfold or animal pound is shown on the 1857 Ordnance Survey map (ref. 1). The pound occupied a position at the south east end of the main street through Yearby village (SMR 3484). It is presumed that its origins were much earlier than the 1850's and perhaps even medieval. The pound is no longer extant but the site is now a domestic garden.	19th century
5133	Find Spot	KIRKLEATHAM SPECIAL SCHOOL	Three sherds of unstratified early medieval pottery were recovered during trial trenching at Kirkleatham special school in 1999. The pottery is described as reduced grey ware of Torksey or Thetford type. In 2005 Stephen Sherlock took an interest in the finds and asked the opinion of pottery expert Ailsa Mainman. She did not think the pottery was early medieval and suggested that post medieval roof tile might be more appropriate. Record retained for interpretation.	Early Medieval
5134	Monument	KIRKLEATHAM SPECIAL SCHOOL	This ditch was partly excavated during trial trenching at Kirkleatham special school in 1999 (see event 101) and was picked up again during a watching brief in the same year (see event 102). The ditch ran east-west and was c. 1.1m wide and 0.5m deep. The ditch was interpreted as a rear boundary of the medieval settlement of Kirkleatham (SMR 915) or an internal boundary within a croft. The ditch cut a number of other linear features that could not be dated.	Medieval
5135	Monument	KIRKLEATHAM SPECIAL SCHOOL	This culvert was partly excavated during trial trenching at Kirkleatham special school in 1999 (see event 101). It was also picked up in a watching brief (see event 102) in the same year. The culvert lay in a NE-SW orientated construction cut and was constructed in sandstone and brick. The culvert was 350mm high and 800mm wide with the interior channel 350mm wide. The brick was thought to date from the early 18th to mid-19th century. The culvert was probably constructed in the 18th century as part of the re-development and improvement of the Kirkleatham hall estate.	18th century
5245	Find Spot	SIR WILLIAM TURNER'S HOSPITAL	These animal bones were recovered by builders who had lifted floor boards in Sir William Turner's hospital. A visit was made to the site by Tees Archaeology (see event 197) to identify the bones on behalf of the builders who suspected they may have been human. The bones were a mixture of fowl and bovine and seem to have been deposited fairly recently judging by the fatty, translucent, appearance of some of the examples. The story was reported in a whimsical fashion by the local press.	20th century
